Santiago de Cuba, Sunday, July 3, Santiago de Cub July 4.—Conferences with the consuls of the foreign powers have been conducted near General Wheeler's head quarters. The consuls said there were 31,000 men, women and children, foreign subjects, in the city, and they requested a cessation of hostilities in order to enable them to be removed outside Santiago, and to be placed under the protection of the United States. This was definitely refused by the American commander, who declined to accept any such responsibility.

The consuls were told that it rested with them to insist upon General Linares surrendering. The conference was resumed at 9 o'clock this morning, when the consuls expressed grave doubts as to General Linares' surrender, on account of the false telegrams in regard to the Spanish victories and yellow fever among the American that had been carried by General King being the consulting of the Ninth, Thirteenth and Twenty-fourth infantry. They were reinforced by a heavy fire all along their line of guns and batteries, and succeeded in driving some of our men from the trenches, but the heavy fire the Americans in line and sent it reeling backward with heavy loss.

LISCUM'S CLOSE CALL Spanish Assass'ns Fired Upon Our

Wounded Men. BARBARISM OF ENEMY

SEVERAL WOUNDED AMERICANS KILLED FROM AMBUSH.

Lieutenant Colonel Liscum Was Fired Upon Several Times-Gallantry of the General Officers at the Front-How General Hawkins Braved the Spanish Bullets.

(Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.) Center of the Line Before Santiago, (Copyright, 1995, by the Associated Press.) July 1 (Delayed in Transmission), via Santiago de Cuba, Sunday, July 3, Kingston, July 4, 1 a. m.—One feature of the fight which has aroused great indignation among the American troops is the act of the Spanish in having sharpshooters in the trees along the line of march of the American troops: of course, if the shurpshooters had fired on armed men, they would have done nothing more than might have been expected, but one Spanish marksman from his poet fired on wounded men and on men carrying the wounded to the rear to the rear. Several members of the ambulance corps were wounded in this manner, and two wounded men who were tolling along to the rear were shot and killed. Some of these marksmen were pested less than half a mile from the heavy loss.

The Americans had advanced from the trenches for the first time, and while the Spaniards were in the open some of our Gatlings on the extreme left did some terrible execution. The casualties among our men were not heavy. General Hawkins was shot in the foot. Over 200 additional wounded were taken to the rear during the night, one batch consisting of 129 men.

Under General Shafter's orders the battle was reopened at 5 o'clock this morning along the whole line. At this writing the sound of the firing is like the long roll of a machine gun, punctuated by the heavy boom of the killed. Some of these marksmen were posted less than half a mile from the American camp.

Colonel Liscom of the Twenty-fourth infantry said: "I was fired upon several times by men in trees and six bullets flew very close to me."

Later in the day a company of cavalry was sent along to clear them out, and the work was effectively done.

The gallantry of the general officers was conspicuous during the fighting. Major General Wheeler, who was zeriously indisposed the night before the battle, was suffering from an attack of fever on the morning of the fight, but as soon as he was aware that the United States troops were likely to be engaged, he ordered an ambulance to convey him to the front. His surgeon attempted to dissuade him, but the old general was obdurate and to the front he went. The ambulance once there, the sound of fighting restored his health, and in a short time he was calling for his horse and personally directing his division in the attack on the rear redoubt.

General Hawkins, commanding the First brigade. Ninth fiftyision, was conthe long roll of a machine gun, punctuated by the heavy boom of the Spanish battery. The recruits were ordered to the front today. Our loss has now reached 1.700 killed and wounded. Part of the night attack was directly opposite to the stations of the Third and Sixth cavalry. Captain Bowden of the Third cavalry went with a working party at 1 a. m. to straighten the line of entrenchments between General Chaffee's brigade on the right and General Kent's division on the left. Whether there was an accident is not known, but he clashed in the darkness with the Spanish, who were advancing the rear redoubt.

General Hawkins, commanding the First brigade, Ninth division, was conspicuous for the manner in which he exposed himself to Spanish builets, and it is a miracle how he escaped serious injury. After taking the redoubt of the hill by his command, aided by detachments from General Whooler's division. ments from General Wheeler's divis-ion, he stood for a long time on the summit of the redoubt, watching the progress of the fight.

Those seriously hurt were kept near the hospital, the officers being placed under two large palms. The men were placed upon the ground around the tents and made as comfortable as possible.

The ambulance corps proved very effective, and no wounded men were allowed to remain on the field after dark. The provisional hospital at Sl-boney received a large number of men, who all night long loitered along the CERVERA MAY BE TAKEN TO

RACE HORSES BURNED. Result of a Fire at the St. Louis Race Track.

St. Louis, July 5.-At 2 o'clock this afternoon fire broke out in the stable of Dr. Bernays, at the fair grounds, just as the first race was being called, and within an hour five valuable race and within an hold live valuable face horses and six stables were consumed, and several other stables were badly damaged. The horses were cut loose from all the stables, and turned into the infield of the track, where a crowd of spectators had collected. The frightened animals stampeded, and it was the the more than the crowd. by the merest chance that the crowd was not run down. A general alarm had ben turned in, but by the time the department arrived six stables had been burned.

Dr. Bernays lost Equitome, Anonyma, and Rey del Corsa, and Clem Crevelin lost Abe Fashion and Ferd Owen. Several horses received in jur-les in the stampede. The fire is supposed to have originated from a cigar-ette. The loss is not estimated.
